Ownership After Dispatch

Title to goods supplied by seller to purchaser remains vested in seller until the purchase and all other monies owing by purchaser to seller in relation to those goods or the price (whether or not due) are paid in full. In addition and without prejudice to the above clause, title to goods supplied by seller to purchaser remains vested in seller until such time as there are no monies owing by purchaser to seller on any account. Pending title passing such goods shall be kept separate and insured to their full value by purchaser at its expense and in all respects shall be held by purchaser as bailee for seller.

Seller shall be entitled at any time to inspect and/or to repossess seller's goods and purchaser agrees to allow and procure for seller any necessary access therefore. The risk in goods shall pass to the purchaser upon delivery to and receipt by the carrier or the purchaser and the purchaser should arrange for appropriate insurance.

All prices, terms and policies are subject to change without notice.
